

MANY PATHS TO FREEDOM: LOOKING BACK, LOOKING AHEAD AT THE LONG CIVIL RIGHTS MOVEMENT

A Public Program Series of the American Folklife Center

ORGANIZING ACROSS THE BOUNDARIES: STRATEGIES AND COALITIONS IN THE STRUGGLE FOR CIVIL RIGHTS AND SOCIAL JUSTICE

A Symposium

Activists and scholars discuss organizing across the borders of ethnicity, race, class and faith in campaigns and movements for justice, human rights, freedom, and self-determination in the 1960s and 1970s. Topics will include the United Farmworkers Movement-led boycotts of non-union produce; the Poor People's Campaign of 1968; free breakfast for schoolchildren programs; the actions of groups such as the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, the Brown Berets, the Black Panther Party, and the National Farm Worker Ministry; and the role of the Mennonite, Catholic, and Protestant churches in these events.
