The federal depository library system includes over 1,200 public, academic, government, and special libraries, throughout the United States and trust territories, each with their own unique collections of US government publications. All of these individual collections together comprise the FDLPC collection, so the FDLP might be considered a collection of collections. The Federal Depository Library Directory (FDLD), available at the URL, http://catalog.gpo.gov/fdplc/FDLPr.jsp , identifies the FDLP libraries and helps customers locate them. Because the FDLP began in the mid 1800s, many FDLP libraries have extensive historic collections of documents, as well as current holdings. Selective FDLP libraries may choose to obtain a copy of all US government publications appropriate to the needs of their clientele. Regional libraries must obtain a complete collection of all US government publications, either in print format or in facs

Covering 77 countries from Morocco to Southern Africa to the Central Asian republics of the former Soviet Union, the division's three sections - African, Hebrew, and Near East - offer in-depth reference assistance, provide substantive briefings on a wide range of subjects relating to these languages and cultures, produce guides to the Library's vast resources and cooperate in developing and preserving the Division's unorganized collections. The Asian Reading Room covers the area from the South Asian subcontinent and Southeast Asia to China, Japan, Korea, and Mongolia. With over 2.8 million books, as well as periodicals and newspapers, a large number of manuscripts, and electronic media, the collections are the most comprehensive sources of Asian-language materials outside of Asia. Area Specialists and Reference Librarians provide in-depth reference assistance on questions concerning Asia.
